Both chambers were crowded to their capacity, for virtu- the United States, Porto Rico promally every senator and representative ises to furnish topic for considerable was present, and the unusual importance that attaches to the deliberations of this congress caused the galleries to be thronged.

At the invitation of Speaker Clark, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and other officers of the National Woman Suffrage association occupied the speaker's galfery in the house, and the interest of these women was intensified by the promise of Representative Mondell of Wyoming that he would signalize the opening day by introducing a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution enabling women to vote.

"Come-Backs" and New Talent. The acute international situation. due to the world war, the question of adequately preparing the country for efense, the problem of trying to turn deficit into a surplus in the nationpenses than ever before, the presidential election year, and a multiplicity of other important things will comine to fill the session from beginning end with animation. Some of the leading roles will be played by history-creators of bygone congresses-men who "return from Elba" after two years' exile following the 1913 upheaval. The chief experienced actor of this class is "Uncle Joe" Cannon, dethroned as speaker four years ago, and exiled two years ago. Another of the old-time stars, William B. McKinley of Illinois, manager of the Taft campaign in 1912.

There is a host of new talent, however. In the house approximately 100 seats were taken by new congressmen. The senate saw a few new faces. Of chief interest among these were Oscar Underwood, who gave up his leadership in the house to don a senator's toga. Curtis of Kansas is a "come-back" senator, being one of the conservative Republicans driven out in 312. Broussard of Louisiana moved om the house into the senate. Two of the most conspicuous absentees were Elihu Root of New York and Theodore Burton of Ohio. Their places were taken respectively by James Wadsworth and Warren G. Harding, both of whom are enrolled in the commonly regarded conservative element of the senate.

Some Big Problems. Here are some of the problems with which congress is called upon to wrestle: National defense, tariff tinkering, rural credits, conservation, merchant marine, ceamen's bill amendment, currency bill amendment. antitrust bill amendment, the international situation, the far-eastern question, an embargo on arms, Mexico, the Phil-Ippines, Porto Rico, Haiti, the Columbian and Nicaraguan treaties, the serious deficit in the national revenues. continuing the war tax, taxing munitions of war profits, building an armor-plate factory, prohibition, suffrage, codification of the federal statutes, and good road building. These are all on the present schedule. Many more entertaining questions are bound to develop after congress gets in full swing. Sentiment of a large element in the country is considered certain to inspire some members to renew efforts for an embargo on munitions of war to the allies. If such a measure is introduced, as it in all probability will be, some lively arguments on the neutrality question may expected. The president is known many months of war the people of all be of the same mind now on this the that an embargo on arms, far from statement, and the session was adsuring the United States' impartial- journed. y in the war, would actually be in diect violation of true neutrality. Indications of the bitterness to characterize the battling over the Philippine question have already been seen in the attacks of Republican members of the insular affairs committees upon the administration of Governor-General Harrison, Democrat, appointec less than two years ago by President Wilson. Charges of mismanagement made in public statements by an investigation by the committee on the Republicans of the insular affairs committees have been refuted by ference with American trade Democratic members who have visited
